

SAMURAI WARFARE & TACTICS

with Sensei Eric Wolford

Bujinkan Budo Taijutsu Japan-licensed Shidoshi-ho

Sunday, March 8 from 9:30am - 10:45am

Ohio Expo Center - Voinovich Building

Eric Sensei will be teaching on the various locks and bone manipulation techniques of the Samurai (Gyaku Waza) as well as how to get skeletal compliance on your attacker with bare hands and the hanbo (half stick).

There is a reason why a large percentage of our students are Police Officers and Military...it WORKS.

ALL DISCIPLINES ARE WELCOME AND ENCOURAGED TO ATTEND!

Eric Wolford

Senior Instructor and Dai Dojo-cho

Samurai Warfare Tactics

Eric began his journey into the martial arts at the age of 19 at the legendary Tiger's Den Shotokan Karate Dojo under Shihan Bobby Kramer. He studied off and on over the years until Sensei Kramer moved his dojo out of Columbus. Taking a break from martial arts in the late 90's to pursue family and a music career, he landed with Grandmaster Charles Wright of Real World Karate and Self Defense. He received his Shodan (black belt) in Shorinryu Matsubayashi Ryu Karate in 2009 from Master Wright, as well as his Sandan (3rd Degree) in 2014. He still continues to train with Master Wright. While cross-training, he also received his Shodan from Grandmaster Robert "Hawk" Hawkins of the Bantu Karate Federation in 2010 and his Nidan (2nd Degree) in 2012. Eric is a Shidoshi (Licensed Teacher) and holds the rank of Godan (5th Degree) in Gendai Nintaijutsu from the Ryu-Sakura-Do Karate Federation as well as Sandan (3rd Degree) from WOMA in Gendai Taijutsu from Master Steven Hatfield.

In 2010, he was introduced to Soke Masaaki Hatsumi's Bujinkan Budo Taijutsu, based in Japan. Eric currently holds the rank of Nidan (2nd Degree) from Dai Shihan Arnaud Cousergue and holds a Shidoshi-ho license to teach within the Bujinkan. He is a member of the International Bujinkan Dojo Organization and Shidoshi-Kai (Instructors Guild) in good standing.

Eric is the senior instructor at the Kazoku Dojo where he teaches primarily Bujinkan Budo Taijutsu.

Eric is also a firearms instructor and OPOTA Certified.
